

Thought by Sarah

English weather, after the sun we get the rain and vice-versa. A rainbow needs
both to exist.

Rainbows give us hope; in the Bible it was God's promise to Noah that he would never send such a flood again.

As time has progressed it is hard to patiently remain at home, especially when it rains.

Humans are social beings and we need each other; we are fortunate to live at a time in history where there is a lot of technology to help us keep in contact. We have the simple phone and many forms of computers.

Human beings are also very inventive so let us not be down hearted but give thanks for what we have and work out ways to do new things.

We save lives of those around us by staying at home. Let's become inventors, creative and find something new to do.

Thank you, Lord, that you inspire us and help us. Lord we lift before you those who are struggling at this time, especially those stuck in flats or without gardens, those feeling isolated and lonely, those who are overworked and those who are worried for the future. Be with each and provide hope for the future. Thank you. Amen.

